Two Clubs Plan Turkey Shoot And Chicken Barbecue Sunday

The Grayling Sportsman's Club and the Grayling Kiwanis Club have joined hands to plan a big outing for this coming Sunday, September 2nd at the Sportsman's Club building and property located west of Grayling on the Old Lake Road.

Featured will be a turkey shoot, chicken barbecue and a variety of other events. Prizes for the turkey shoot will be turkeys and chickens.

Entry fee for the turkey shoot is set at $1.00 and for each ten men event, first prize will be a turkey and second prize a chicken. Those in the event will shoot at a cross on a mimeographed target of a turkey. The one getting the one pellet closest to the cross will be declared the winner.

Also to be enjoyed will be an archery range, horseshoe courts, trap and moose-killing shooting. In the trap shooting event, five men will fire at 25 targets each. Among the 125 targets in the event will be one colored one. The man shattering the colored target will win a prize.

The chicken barbecue will be served starting at noon until all of the food is gone. It will be a complete meal and the charge has been set at a low $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for children. It promises to be a big event and everything will be in full swing starting at noon and will continue all through the afternoon and into the evening hours.

Spokesmen for the two clubs stressed that it was not necessary to be a member of either club to participate and they urged everyone to come out to take part.

The first time the two clubs have joined hands in the sponsorship of such an event and a successful run will probably bring others to follow.

Annual Audit of City of Grayling

August 10, 1962
TO THE HONORABLE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL
City of Grayling, Michigan

I have examined the balance sheets as of June 30, 1962, of the GENERAL FUND (INCLUDING FIXED ASSETS AND RELATED BONDED INDEBTEDNESS), CEMETERY, PERPETUAL CARE AND MAUSOLEUM FUND, ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER PLANT AND DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM FUND, SEWAGE TREATMENT FUND, TRUST AND AGENCY FUND, with respect to the CITY OF GRAYLING, MICHIGAN, and their related statements of revenues and expenditures for the fiscal year then ended. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances, except that I did not confirm the receivable items by direct correspondence with the debtors.

The City of Grayling, Michigan, at June 30, 1962, and the financial transactions of these funds, principles of municipal accounting applied on a basis consistent in all material respects with that of the preceding year.

"How To Lose Jobs" . . .

The Altoona, Pennsylvania, Mirror, recently devoted an editorial to the highly important topic of "How to Lose Jobs."

A proposed law in Maine would raise the employer taxes which are used to meet unemployment benefits from one-half per cent of payroll to an eventual 2.7 per cent.

An iron works in that state says that this would increase its cost of doing business by $230,000 a year. Recently the works, as low bidder, received a $72 million contract.

However, its bid was less than $90,000 below that of an out-of-state competitor. Had the newly proposed unemployment taxes, with their influence on overhead costs been in effect, it would have lost the contract. And numbers of its 3,000 employees would have joined the ranks of the unemployed.

This is just one of many examples that could be listed of taxes and tax rates that are self-defeating and destructive by their very nature. This country wants and needs more job opportunities. The over-all tax picture has a great deal to do with whether or not those opportunities will be created.

In Spite Of The Controls . . .

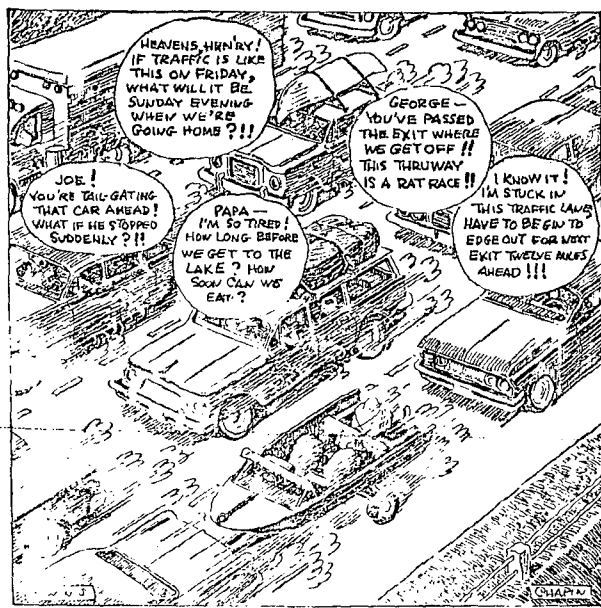

Might America be richer and stronger industrially if government controls had not multiplied so fast since the 1880's? John Chamberlain, financial writer and business historian, asks the question in a magazine, published by the Sun Oil Company.

Borrowing from the words of a past-era popular song, Mr. Chamberlain asserts "It Ain't Necessarily So" that there is cause and effect between growing government controls over business and the nation's tremendous economic growth in the past 75 years.

Indeed, he says: "With the dictates of old-fashioned logic in mind, it can be held that America has become the world's most affluent society in spite of the controls."

"It might be held that it is simply because of our affluence that we have been able to afford the controls in the first place . . ." In reviewing the growth of the nation's economy and the parallel of government controls, Mr. Chamberlain stated it was in the Eighties that "it first became manifest to a wide public that free enterprise meant a bountiful distribution of an ever-mounting affluence . . . By a paradox that is difficult to explain on the basis of strict logic, the Eighties were also the years in which government, with the creation of the Inter-state Commerce Commission in 1887, started closing in on free enterprise."

After reviewing the progress America has made and the inventions which helped that progress, Mr. Chamberlain questions whether it would have been possible if, for instance, "Edison had had to beg a laboratory from Congress . . ."

A mural painting, depicting the early lumbering days of Grayling, has been finished and is now adorning the west wall of the post office. Its area is 12 feet by 5 feet and covers approximately 56 square feet. The painting is on canvas, and shows views of many early lumbering operations. In the foreground are men sawing a log, others are loading, some are piling and a dummy locomotive hauling a load is seen in the background. Everything about the picture denotes bigness—big men, big tools and big operations. In the lower right hand corner is a picture of Shoppensons, who had much in common with the development and operations of the timber and lumber activities in and about Grayling. In his hand he is holding a grayling, a native fish of the AuSable River, after which Grayling is named. The canvas is cemented to the wall with a special adhesive. The medium employed in its execution, according to Robert L. Lopper, artist who made the painting, is an emulsion of egg, varnish and water with which the colors are ground. These are in turn glazed with oil colors. The method is one employed by Italian and Flemish masters, and antedates oil painting.

It would be hard to conceive a more enthusiastic group than that which gathered last week Thursday evening at Shoppensons Inn to enjoy the Grayling Flyers Club's first get-together and banquet. Nearly 50, including guests were present. The club consists of 40 members with Elmer Aard as instructor, St. Verne Dagen of the Michigan State Police, is president; Clyde Peterson, vice president and Fritz Heath, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Borchers and Mr. and Mrs. George Granger entertained 11 couples at a wine and roast and scavenge hunt Sunday evening. The crowd drove down to the pullover on the AuSable at Mrs. Adolph Peterson and William Heric won prizes for gathering all articles named and returning to the Borchers home, the soonest. Dessert and coffee were enjoyed after the hunt, closing a very enjoyable affair.

About a year ago Mr. Boutell built a small pond along the river to see what the young trout would do. Early this spring he received a consignment of small trout which he put in the pond. He let them have their own way, did not feed them and last week let them go in the river, and they are from 5 to 6 inches long. He has also built five log cabins, which are as fine a lot of work as can be seen in the state.

Letters To The Editor

United States Military Academy

Dear Mr. Strong,

In a few minutes I'll be starting on my Plebe Hike. It'll consist of three days of hiking and living out of doors.

Beast Barricks is almost over now. The really had some trying experiences, and it's a relief to know that classes will be starting in 12 days.

The hardest week is coming up this Monday. Its called roof organization week. I'll be moving into my regular lettered company, which is L-2.

At this time and from now on we Plebes will be outnumbered 3-10-1. So you can see that a Plebe certainly has to be on his toes.

I wish more people would write to me.

Sincerely,
New Cadet Neal

The cause of this condition is a den and intense heat that results in the fuel lines and carburetor for coming to a boil and giving off a vapor that unbalances the fuel-air mixture causing the engine to stall.
You must prevent this sta-
by shifting the carburetor link. This is done by time. The carburetor link is moved up and the fuel is forced into which causes the engine
to stall.
Vapor lock invariably occurs
while a car is standing or moving so slowly that there is little air circulation. The momentum that the car gains from the vapor lock disappears. The reason is that insulating air locks the fuel lines, eliminating the boiling condition.

If you are having frequent stalls in summer weather and when first starting your car in the morning, your engine has vapor lock. Your car's carburetor has a mixture level adjusting and vent points and plugs check it.
In short, there is no actual cure for vapor lock short of bringing about a situation where the gasoline can cool off, it is much more likely to occur in an untuned engine.
If this problem is bothering you, our service department will be glad to check it for you without obligation.

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewer Association, was organized in 1862... the same year

IN MICHIGAN, the new mines in the southwest corner of the state were supplying the Union with desperately needed iron ore. And, all over Michigan, beer was supplying folks with sparkling refreshment.

For then as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation—light, sparkling refreshment that adds a touch of hospitality to any occasion. Folks in Michigan have always enjoyed the good fellowship that goes with every glass.

TODAY, in its Centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

A Visit To Two Flower Gardens In Crawford County

By Polly Mikessell

A few weeks ago Bob Hayes mentioned in his Chamber of Commerce bulletin "Nor'Way", that he would like to know of some of the pretty gardens in the county, and he got several responses. Among them was a suggestion to go see the Robert Dyers' garden at Lake Margrethe, which he did. Your reporter was invited along just because of a habit of reading seed catalogs each spring, which furnishes some knowledge of how to spell flower names.

The Dyers' garden the latter part of August still had masses of blue, particularly beds of nicotiana, which gives off a sweet odor at night, but not in the daytime, phlox in several colors, gladioli, rows of marigolds chrysanthemums, zinnias, gloriosa daisies, petunias, and a big bed of portulaca, or moss roses. There were clumps of hollyhocks, Chinese forget-me-nots, bachelor's buttons, Shirley poppies, coreopsis, the dark red monarda, pink cleome, the spider plant, carnations, dwarf dahlias, verbenas, English daisies, a double platycodon, the balloon flower, tall tiger lilies, lemon-colored daylilies, blue salvia, purple lythrum.

A lone foxglove was still blooming. Morning glories climbed beside the summer house, and there were stray second blooms on the mockorange shrub. A hydrangea five feet tall was covered with white and green blooms. There were spring-flowering forsythia and lilac bushes, a snowball that blooms in the early summer, a daphnia, which blooms in the spring, and a rose of Sharon, yet to bloom, those beautiful spring harbingers of a more southern climate, azaleas, and most unbelievable of all, a magnolia tree which bloomed this year. There were plants of geraniums, delphinium, sweet Williams, sedum, asters, peonies, and lavender. There were even raspberries in the vegetable garden, and those not-so-easy-to-bloom houseplants, gloxinias, which Mrs. Dyer has in many colors. Last but far from least, there were still roses blooming, American Beauties, Peace roses, and many of the mostly hybrid teas. As any one can appreciate, so great a variety of flowers and shrubs require quite a lot of space, which takes reasonably constant tending, which the Dyers take pleasure in giving. Birds of all kinds visit their garden spot, which includes a bird bath, kept filled. Their bit of good earth gives back to them food for the eyes as well as the stomach.

The Ted Leslies, who are good friends with the Robert Dyers, have a garden plot, in Karen Woods, which they have located so that the casual passer doesn't see all its treasures. In front of the house they do have a bed of portulaca, and a border of nicotiana, candytuft, ageratum, a deep tuberose begonia, zinnias, petunias, and Shirley poppies. Another border runs around beside the house. In it are pinks, gallardias, pansies, Adonis, Bartonia, hardy hibiscus, or perennial rosemallow.

Away from the road, the Leslies have their biggest garden. They have made this a row garden, and in it they have bush balsam blue lacerflower, Clarkias, asters, carnations, sweet scented heliotrope, larkspur, perfumed stocks, many colors of canna, golden glow, morning glories, delphinium, hollyhocks, primroses, and Jerusalem cross. They also have a large bed of gladioli, both the old favorites and many new ruffled varieties. Besides all this bounty of bloom, they have garden vegetables for themselves and to spare, all in a space that many would consider limited, but which gives the impression of order and beauty, instead of any feeling of crowding.

These folks surely have green thumbs, for they have succeeded with numbers and varieties of growing things which most folks would say could not be done in this northern climate.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Malloy drove to Owosso and Detroit last weekend to take home their grandchildren, David Luter, and Danny and Tracy Phillips, who spent last week here with their parents. The Joe Wolfe family of Detroit arrived Friday to spend until Labor Day at their cottage on Thendara Road.

A week ago on Sunday Butch Borchers and his cousin Jay Mathews of Roscommon took the bus to Pontiac to visit his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ward and family. Jay's mother was already there for a visit, and his father, LeRoy Mathews, picked them all up on the weekend and brought them back home.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lespie were his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dorney and daughter Christa of Hillsdale. Other guests have been Mr. and Mrs. Max Shihlla and son Jerry of Hamtramck, The Lapkas and Mrs. Pat Kahoun spent Monday of last week in Traverse City.

Mrs. Claude Parkinson enjoyed a visit from members of her family recently. Her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barber and children of Victoria, Texas, left the forepart of the week after a ten-day visit. Another daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Bogie of Detroit, and her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parkinson, were here for the weekend.

The Bunco Club met August 28th at Mrs. Floyd SanCartier's home. First prize for the evening went to Mrs. Carl Larson, second to Mrs. Byron Randolph and third to Mrs. Herbert-Stephan. Mrs. Orrin Hawkins won the penny prize. The club meets again this Thursday, August 30th, at Mrs. Jennie Owen's home.

Of interest to their Grayling friends will be that Mr. and Mrs. Ken Webb have just purchased a lodge and cottages and are now in the resort business at Hubbard Lake, near Alpena. Mrs. Webb is the former Rose Newell.

Mrs. Matilda Bishop entertained a group of friends at dinner at the Douglas Hotel in Lovells Wednesday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rosin and two children left Friday after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Roy Milnes. They came down from summer camp at Green Lake, Wis., where Bill was administrator, on their way home to Portales, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Giegling were in Detroit weekend before last to visit their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Lynchey, and also their son Roger. Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Cornwell of Las Vegas, New Mexico, who had come to visit her mother at Bellaire, spent Thursday with Mrs. Wilfred Laurent. Mrs. Cornwell is the former Mabel Shippey, who was linotypist at the Avalanche in 1928 and 1927.

Mr. William Madison of Lansing, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pieple of Lamoni, Iowa, have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Babbitt.
